About Mallorca

Hacienda Mallorca is a farm near Caicedonia in the Valle del Cauca department of southwestern Colombia producing specialty coffee on most of its 51 hectares including microlots of caturra, yellow bourbon, and geisha varieties. The single estate is run by Santiago Londoño, a 4th generation coffee farmer and environmentalist with a focus on agricultural adaptation and sustainability in the face of climate change.

There are 18 natural springs on the property that are protected by conservation forests. All of the water used in the farm's domestic and industrial processes is filtered and treated before it is returned to the environment.

The workforce in the farm is local, and there is also a women's program for micro-lots, which consists of collection and selection of the cherries before they go into the wet milling process.

In addition to their unique coffee varieties and devotion to their environment, Mallorca perhaps places their strongest emphasis on post-harvest processing. They mainly produce fully washed coffees, combining traditional techniques with more experimental controlled fermentations. They also produce semi-washed (honeyed) and natural coffees, processes far less commonly seen in Colombia.
